PROPERTY NOTE

Moraine Farm was named for the rocky moraine on the property. In 1880, Boston businessman John Charles Phillips (October 1938-1885) commissioned Frederick Law Olmsted to create a landscape design using approximately 275 acres of land that Phillips owned on the shores of Wenham Lake. Olmsted and the architectural firm Peabody & Stearns created a landscape with buildings that complemented the topography of the land. The majority of the work was completed by 1908. After Phillips's death, his wife, Anna Tucker Phillips (15 January 1849-24 April 1925), and five children spent six months per year at Moraine Farm and Phillips's sons John Charles Phillips, Jr. (5 November 1876-14 November 1938) and William (30 May 1878-23 February 1968) each purchased adjoining properties. William Phillips moved part of the original red farmhouse to his property. Parts of these additional purchases are now the J.C. Phillips Nature Preserve.

In 1928, George Lewis Batchelder, Jr., (b. 1897) a Harvard University graduate of 1918 or 1919 and his wife, Katharine Tiffany Abbott Batchelder (5 September 1899-1977), purchased 141 acres of the farm. By 1947, the Batchelders had purchased the agricultural buildings and the fields. In 1977, Professor George L. Batchelder III (20 October 1930-22 October 1999), who founded Pollen Research Associates, and his wife, Wilhelmina Alice “Mimi” Van Liere Batchelder, inherited the farm, and in 1982 returned to the farm to live full time. They began to restore the Olmsted landscape and created a certified management plan to improve the soil, wildlife, and timber resources. In 1991, the Batchelder family entered into an agreement with The Trustees of Reservations and the Essex County Greenbelt Association to own the conservation and preservation restrictions placed on Moraine Farm. In 1999, Project Adventure purchased 70 acres of land from the Batchelders for organizational use. Beginning in 2011, The Waldorf School at Moraine Farm purchased a portion of Project Adventure’s property. Today, these organizations, with the addition of The Friends of the Olmsted Landscape at Moraine Farm, continue to maintain the property. ### DESCRIPTION OF THE PAPERS

The Batchelder Family Papers Regarding Moraine Farm contains correspondence, research materials, photographic material, maps, and plans relating to Moraine Farm in Beverly, Massachusetts. There are also materials for a management plan, which was written in 2007. The bulk of the collection is from 1980 to 1999. The folders are labeled inconsistently due to the fact that they were labeled at different times; however, the folder titles and box and folder numbers are consistent. The collection is organized into seven series: Correspondence, Literary Productions, Printed Material, Financial Documents, Photographic Material, Maps and Plans, and Restricted Material.

Series I, Correspondence, is organized chronologically. It includes correspondence to Katharine Abbott Batchelder from her father, Gordon Abbott; letters about visits to the farm; and general correspondence about the management plan.

Series II, Literary Productions, is organized chronologically. It includes research notes, materials about Moraine Farm by Charles Beveridge, and tour materials.

Series III, Printed Material, is organized chronologically. It includes articles by George L. Batchelder, Project Adventure Publications, and plant information.

Series IV, Financial Documents, is organized chronologically. It includes building repair proposals, ledger sheets, and invoices.

Series V, Photographs, is organized chronologically. It includes photographs of the property and buildings. Folder titles are taken from original envelopes.

Series VI, Maps and Plans, is organized chronologically. It includes plans of the J.C. Phillips Estate, plans of Wenham Lake subdivision, and plans for the property.

Series VII, Restricted Materials, is organized chronologically. It includes materials related to the sale of part of the property to Project Adventure and drafts of the management plan. An appendix of the material is available.
